 - a. the purpose and character of the use, including whether such use is of a commercial nature or is for nonprofit educational purposes.
 - b. the nature of the copyrighted work.

 - c. Students use video footage of other students in class and at their homes, but fail to obtain signed permission slips from the participating students and their parents to use the video clips in a school project submitted for competition and possible publication online.
 - d. Students use several video clips from commercial DVDs owned by students and rented from a local video store in their cooperative video project.
4. All copyrighted works used in projects must include documented permission from the copyright owner. Some examples of documented permission include: Signed letters, E-mails, Copies of web sites and/or other publications giving a blanket waiver to use the copyrighted material.
